About Our Outreach Project

Off the eastern coast of Guatemala lies a small and vibrant town of approximately 14,000 people. Livingston is noted for its mix of Garifuna, Afro-Caribbean, Maya and Ladino people and culture. Reachable only by boat, it is here that Identify is working to convert a small community clinic into a mini hospital with our friend and partner, Dr. Rosales. This is one of our biggest projects of the year and is essential in continuing to meet medical needs in this remote area of the world!!

Our list of needs spans from daily office supplies to larger medical equipment. Would you join us in our efforts? With your support - either financial or material resources - we can see this project grow and serve coastal Guatemalans in a whole new way!
